Je suis l'endroit où le sermon est prononcé

8

Je suis le grand autel, un endroit très particulier

Je suis les Fonts, l'endroit où les baptêmes ont lieu

10

Je suis l'endroit où Becket a été assassiné

Sur les traces des tombes

Des archevêques du passé sont enterrés dans la Cathédrale. Peux-tu retrouver leurs tombes et décoder leurs noms?

Les signes et symboles

En te promenant dans la Cathédrale, vois si tu peux remarquer quelques signes.

Retrouve ce grand fauteuil de pierre. Il fut celui de St _____, le premier _____ de Canterbury.

Essaye d'apercevoir certaines statues et sculptures des personnes qui portaient ces étranges chapeaux appelés mitres. Cela signifie qu'ils étaient Archevêques.

En ville:

Si nous avons le temps, nous nous promènerons dans Canterbury. Regardez bien autour de vous et identifiez le plus d'endroits possibles de manière à pouvoir découper et coller les textes avec les photos correspondantes ci-dessous (NB : certaines photos et certains textes ne pourront pas vous servir car nous ne les verrons pas tous)

Canterbury Cathedral:

This is where the Archbishops of Canterbury are enthroned. It was originally founded by St Augustine and largely rebuilt in the 11th century.

Medieval shopfront:

Built in 1390 to serve the many visiting pilgrims. The original adjoining shop was destroyed in the 1950's

Canterbury's oldest house has been lived in since 1250 AD

Formerly Sun's Inn on Palace Street

Marlowe Theatre is named after Christopher Marlowe, the 16th century playwright who was born in Canterbury. Look out for his statue outside.

House of Agnes: A familiar sight in Canterbury are these 14th century timbered medieval houses with three roofs. This house features in Dickens' David Copperfield.

Christ's Church Gate

overlooks the Buttermarket Square and the Memorial Statue. A statue of Christ in the central niche was reinstalled in 1990

City Walls: Three quarters of the city wall still survive and seven out of the original 21 towers can still be seen.

The River Stour: One of the city's two rivers. This picture shows Weaver House as seen from the 11th century King's Bridge.

The ruins of Canterbury Castle.

The city's West Gate

« Un musée chargé d'histoire »

The British Museum

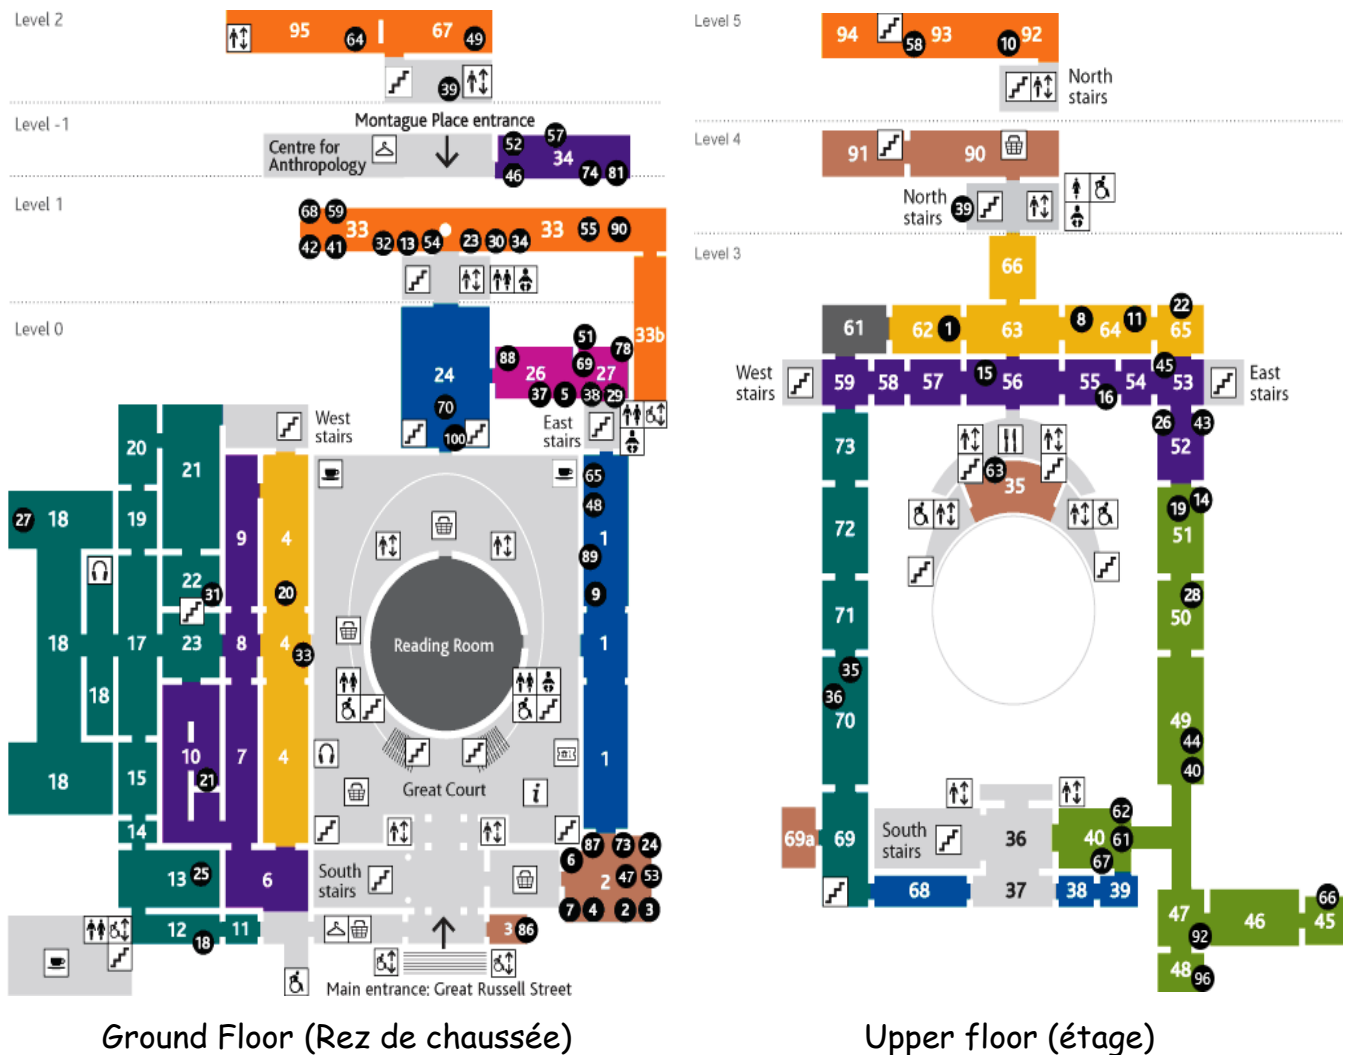

Le British Museum a ouvert ses portes en 1759, c'est donc l'un des plus anciens musées du monde.

Au départ, c'est le médecin Hans Sloane qui a légué sa collection à la nation anglaise, puis cette collection a été enrichie. Aujourd'hui le British Museum abrite plus de huit millions d'objets provenant de la plupart des civilisations, ils recouvrent l'Histoire de l'art de l'origine de l'humanité à nos jours.

L'objectif pour nous au musée est de voir le maximum d'objets emblématiques en 2h !

Pour vous repérer :

Entrez calmement dans le musée par l'entrée principale sur Great Russel Street

1. British Museum Dome

Montez les marches de l'entrée, passez le petit hall et vous accédez à la grande cour centrale (Great Court), la plus grande cour ouverte d'Europe.

Repérez la phrase célèbre d'un poète anglais
« And let thy feet millenniums hence be set in midst of knowledge »

Complétez cette traduction : « Que tes pieds, pour les millénaires à venir, soient placés au milieu de la
..... »

Si vos pieds sont correctement placés, vous pourrez répondre à cette question : Qui est l'auteur de cette citation ?

2. The Rosetta Stone

Allons à présent visiter le temps des pharaons et des hiéroglyphes. De la grande cour, accédez sur votre droite à la Room 4 : Egyptian Sculpture, recherchez le morceau de roche extrêmement connu : La Pierre de Rosette. Cette pierre a été trouvée en Égypte à Rosette.

Gravée en 196 av JC, le même texte y est inscrit en 3 écritures différentes. Ceci a permis de déchiffrer les hiéroglyphes, une des écritures les plus anciennes de l'histoire, jusqu'alors impossible à lire. Mais, quelle est cette personne qui a réussi à déchiffrer ces textes ?

Hiéroglyphes

Version démotique

Deux grands bustes observent cette célèbre pierre, ce sont deux grands pharaons. Qui sont-ils ?

Version grecque

3. Assyrian Lion Hunt reliefs

Passez par la Room 10 : Assyria : Lion hunts, Siege of Lachish and Khorsabad, vous y découvrirez des scènes de chasse sculptées, pleines de réalisme. Ces œuvres se classent parmi les plus belles réalisations de l'art assyrien.

Dans l'ancienne Assyrie, la chasse au lion était considérée comme le sport des rois, symbolique du devoir du monarque qui devait protéger et défendre son peuple.

Pourriez-vous d'ailleurs retrouver le nom du dernier grand roi assyrien (668-631 avant JC) ?

4. Parthenon sculptures

Dirigez-vous vers la Room 18 : Greece : Parthenon Sculptures. Cette pièce est entièrement consacrée aux marbres et aux sculptures prélevés au Parthénon, un temple de l'antiquité grecque consacré à Athéna, déesse de la guerre et de la sagesse, et construit au milieu du 5^e siècle av JC. L'une des plus célèbres pièces du Parthénon est une tête d'animal appartenant à Séléné, la déesse de la Lune. Quel est cet animal ?

5. Marble statue of ... (1250 av JC)

Accédez à la Room 23 : Greek and roman sculpture. Rome ayant conquis la Grèce au premier siècle avant JC, l'art romain a été influencé par le style grec. La plupart des sculptures exposées dans cette pièce 23 sont des versions romaines d'originaux grecs.

Repérez cette statue dans la salle, quel est le nom du dieu qui est représenté ici ?

Dans cette même pièce, vous trouverez une statue de Vénus, elle semble effrayée par les taureaux ailés du palais du roi assyrien Sargon II, ils devaient sûrement garder l'entrée du palais. Les gardes accompagnant ces taureaux devaient s'ennuyer également et ont dessiné une grille de jeu étrange entre la 4^e et la 5^e patte du taureau de droite (un des jeux de société les plus anciens du monde). Vous devrez à présent trouver la version « de luxe » de ce jeu dans une autre salle à l'étage.

De quelle salle s'agit-il? (Lisez les informations près des statues pour trouver l'information)

Ce jeu appelé le « jeu des vingt cases » vient du sud de l'Irak et date d'environ 2600 / 2400 av JC. Il s'agit d'un des jeux les plus populaires du monde antique, pourriez-vous trouver l'autre nom de ce jeu ?

6. Mummies

Vous pouvez à présent passer dans la Room 63 : Egyptian Death and afterlife : mummies.

La mort et l'au-delà avaient une signification particulière dans l'Égypte ancienne. Les préparations funéraires et les rites étaient censés assurer la transition de l'individu de l'existence terrestre à l'immortalité.

Retrouvez le nom de cette momie (attention elles se ressemblent toutes!) :

7. Double-headed serpent

Descendez au rez-de-chaussée et allez dans la Room 27 : Mexico. Vous y trouverez des objets aztèques impressionnants. Ce serpent a probablement été porté comme pectoral (ornement porté sur la poitrine) lors de cérémonies. Le serpent est associé à des divinités. Il est sculpté dans le bois mais de quoi est-il recouvert ?

DAY 3: OXFORD

Au cours de ta découverte de ce collège universitaire, imagine que tu pourrais toi aussi y vivre, comme des centaines d'étudiants depuis sa création. Songe à ce qui te plairait, ou te déplairait si c'était ton univers quotidien. Note en dernière page tes remarques et tes questions.

Ce questionnaire va te guider dans ta visite, mais n'oublie pas de regarder au-delà de ce qui saute aux yeux, d'observer, et de prendre plaisir à cette visite !

Le crayon à la main....

Let's go!

The Dining Hall:

- Combien de convives peuvent y manger?

- Quelle reine d'Angleterre y a aussi son portrait? Décris son visage et sa coiffure.

- Que représente le portrait sur fond blanc?

- Quelle enfant célèbre de la littérature anglaise a vécu à Christ Church? Quel est le nom du livre dont elle est l'héroïne?

- Que vois-tu d'autre sur le vitrail où elle figure?

The Cathedral

- Quelles sont les couleurs du dallage?

- Estime la longueur de la nef de la cathédrale:

- Combien de tuyaux comptes-tu sur les orgues?

- Shrine of Saint Frideswide: combien de visages voit-on sur le monument?

- Un vitrail montre la sainte se cachant dans une porcherie: quels animaux et quelles fleurs se trouvent dans le même vitrail?

- Le vitrail 16 comporte un objet qui ne pouvait pas exister au Moyen Age: qu'est-ce que c'est?

Tombeau de Lady Elizabeth Montacute

- Qui tient les coussins? _____
- Que voit-on à ses pieds? _____
- Ses enfants sont représentés sur le tombeau: combien en avait-elle?

Becket Window: décris la scène.

- Demander où se trouve la porte secrète du plafond, "the secret door on the ceiling."

- Qu'y a-t-il au milieu de la cour du cloître?

Tom Quad and Tower

- Quel dieu surmonte la fontaine du bassin?
- Qu'est-ce que "Tom"?
- Que signifie le nombre 101?

- Quelle est l'heure d'Oxford?

Escalier:

- Quel mot pourrait décrire les formes architecturales du plafond?

Note tes observations ou commentaires personnels sur ce que tu as remarqué, ce qui t'a intéressé ou surpris.

Bonus:

Tous les étudiants de Christ Church jouissent d'un privilège qui leur permet de boire du lait frais tous les matins. De quelle tradition s'agit-il?

DAY 4 : BATH

Your host family

Dear host family, we would appreciate if you could spare a few minutes to answer the questions on this sheet. Please don't simply fill in this questionnaire; our students are supposed to do this orally, to ask you the questions and to write down your answers. The only purpose of this 'exercise' is to get our students to communicate and to keep them out of their rooms to enjoy a bit of conversation, limited though it may be. Should you find some of the questions too embarrassing, just ignore them. Thank you very much for your help!
